

Learning activity 1

The poem currently has no punctuation.

Can you read it aloud and decide where the punctuation might be placed? For example, you might need to insert a comma when you need to take a breath.

The Music of the Wind

The wind

makes LOUD music

It roars above the rooftops

it drums beneath the floor

it howls around the gable-end and rat-a-tats the door

The wind

makes quiet music

It whistles down the chimney

it tiptoes through a tree

it hums against the window-pane and whispers tunes to me
